'Dudley Library Important To Librarian' Neighbors

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Tuesdays and Fridays are important days in the lives of youngsters in the vicinity of 33rd and Dudley, and especially important to 15-year-old Susie Dahl, who is a muscular dystrophy victim.

The reason—those are library days at the so-called "Dudley Street Library" in the basement of the Dahl home at 1240 No. 33rd.

On those days, children from ages 3 to 16 stroll, books in arm, to the library, which has been a summer project of Susie and her family.

The Dahls have accumulated some 100 books and various magazines for preschool through adult ages, which they have made available to youngsters.

Some 20 children have "library cards" for the Dudley Library through which they check in and out books with Susie the librarian.

According to Susie's mother, Mrs. Sam Dahl, a portion of the basement has been curtained off by the children to form the library which has an outside access.

The "Library" contains two reading tables—one standard size and the second for pre-school children, bookshelves and the librarian's desk.

Library hours are from two to five and seven to eight on Tuesdays and Fridays.

Mayor Refuses To See Brando, 3 Other Actors

Gadsden, Ala. (AP)—Four movie actors led by Marlon Brando defended their right to help fight for racial equality in the South Friday, but tempered their statements with criticism of "hypocrisy" in other parts of the nation.

The Hollywood celebrities denied a charge of "rabble-rousing" tactics by Mayor Lesley Gilliland and insisted that they came here as ambassadors of good will and not as agitators.

They sought to confer with the mayor and other city officials in what they described as an attempt to establish workable communications between the two races in this racially-troubled northeast Alabama city.

Grim Warning

But Gilliland unequivocally refused to talk to them, and warned grimly that if they violated the law they would go to jail.

The four actors—Brando, Paul Newman, Anthony Franciosa and Virgil Frye—planned to leave Gadsden later in the day to return to their jobs. Brando said Newman would fly to New York, the others to California.

While they were unable to discuss racial problems with city authorities, the four were successful in efforts to discuss matters with officials of the sprawling Republic Steel Corp. plant on the outskirts of this industrial center.

Similar attempts to arrange conferences with officials of the Goodyear Rubber Co. fell through when the entertainers were told that company officials were in conference and could not see them immediately.

Brando, who since his arrival here Thursday night has acted as spokesman for the group, told newsmen that "we are here as devoted and peaceful representatives of good will . . . not as agitators, interlopers or interferences."

Trouble Everywhere

While no one can deny that Negroes have not achieved racial equality in the South, the Academy Award-winning Brando said, at the same time, "we have trouble in New York, in the West, the East and the South."

"Southerners can point to the North and accuse them of hypocrisy, insulated and restricted thinking just as easily as the finger can be pointed the other way."

Too long, he continued, has the South "been accused as the sole source of friction and trouble between the races. They are just as much to blame in the North, the East and the West."

If Kerr-Mills Got Mixed Up, Session May Ponder It Too

By BETTY PERSON
Star Staff Writer

Gov. Frank Morrison said Friday he would expect to include in his call for a special session of the Legislature remedial legislation to provide administrative funds for the Kerr-Mills bill "if it is, as it appears, another mistake of the Budget Committee."

State Welfare Director Frank Woods revealed Friday that the Legislature failed to appropriate funds to administer the medical care program.

Woods said he had an opinion from the attorney general that the 1963-65 budget bill includes no administrative appropriation for Kerr-Mills, and the director said unless it is corrected, it means there will be no medical care program this biennium.

$175,000 Estimate

The welfare director estimated administrative costs for this biennium would be about $175,000.

The Legislature appropriated $1,665,000 for the Kerr-Mills program, but the budget bill directs that it shall be for "medical care for the aged" as provided under LB100 (Kerr-Mills bill), and nothing was included for "administrative costs, salaries, wages and maintenance" as is usually specified.

"I feel confident this is just another mistake of the Budget Committee," Morrison said, "but I want to talk to Sen. (Richard) Marvel (committee chairman) to be sure the Budget Committee didn't do this deliberately."

Morrison said if the committee purposely did not include administrative funds "in order to prevent enactment of the Kerr-Mills program, then this, of course, involves a policy matter."

'Other Mistakes'

"But it is impossible for me to believe that it was done deliberately," the governor continued, "so I would expect it to be included in the call along with the other mistakes made by the Budget Committee."

Morrison said it was never his intention to limit the call to items he previously mentioned (time-sales remedial legislation, the bottle club bill, proper placement of driver education funds and Statehouse murals appropriations).

but to include also remedies for "obvious mistakes and urgent matters."

"We're going to make a concerted effort to discover all the mistakes which the Budget Committee and other committees have made so they can be corrected in the special session," Morrison said.

Bowen To Write

At Red Cloud, Sen. Kenneth Bowen, chief sponsor of the Kerr-Mills bill, said he would write Morrison and urge that he include the matter of the administrative funds in the special session call.

Bowen noted that some $800,000 had to be appropriated from the general fund this first fiscal year of the biennium to pay for the Kerr-Mills program (hereafter to be financed by a $2 hike in the head tax) and that this was "one of the big items in the 1,365 mills increase in state property taxes."

"If we're going to increase the property tax to pay for the program and the state levy cannot be changed at this late date, then I think the governor has no other alternative than to include this matter in the call so we can have the program we're paying for," Bowen said.

JFK HITS AID CUT

TO ENLARGE IT:
Drillers To Close Off Hole

Hazleton, Pa. (AP)—Plugging of a 12-inch hole as a preliminary step to enlarging the hole to escape size for two trapped miners began early Saturday.

Earlier, Friday night rescuers saw pictures of the two trapped miners they are trying to free on a television screen taken by a tiny camera lowered through the 12-inch escape hole which earlier had reached the men.

The plugging of the hole is necessary to prevent dust and debris from falling into the underground chamber during the drilling.

The images, unclear but definitely that of miners, showed dirty faces, one with a heavy beard. They were the faces of David Fellin, 58, and Henry Throne, 29, who have been in the chamber 331 feet underground for 10½ days.

Someone in the audience of rescue workers, newsmen and kinfolk watching the screen yelled, "a hand, a hand!" others called, "a face!"

Frequently light from the helmets worn by the trapped miners flashed on the TV lens.

The $3,000 camera, made by General Precision Corp. of Pleasantville, N.Y., was not equipped for sound. It scanned the walls of the shaft as it was moved up and down. Clear pictures of earth, rock and coal were visible at times. At other times the camera obviously was out of focus and only hazy images appeared.

The purpose of the television was to check the shaft, to examine the area where the men are and to permit a physician to examine them.

But the physician, Dr. Peter Sara, of Hazleton, said he was unable to obtain any medical information from the viewing. He said he couldn't distinguish one man from another.

Samuel L. Thomas, of General Precision, said "we were definitely not satisfied."

As the awe-struck audience of businesslike conversation flowed between the trapped men and a communications monitor on the surface.

Technician Elwood Tito had warned Fellin and Throne to turn their backs to the hole to protect their eyes from the sudden glare of bright lights attached to the camera.

"As soon as you see it coming through, give me a yell," Tito told them.

'Take It Easy'

A few minutes later, Fellin said, "The light is about 25 feet up the hole." The lowering of the camera was slowed and about five minutes later Fellin shouted, "I think I see it. Take it easy, it's coming through."

It was the second time modern science was used in the rescue attempt. Thursday night radio-active cobalt and geiger counters were used with results still unknown.

Rescue experts were about ready to decide how much bigger to make the escape hole.

Suit Asks Court To Nullify Legislature's Redistricting

NAME 'MASTER' TO MAKE NEW PLAN

By NANCY RAY
Star Staff Writer

Plaintiffs in the U.S. District Court suit asking that recent redistricting of the state legislative districts be declared unconstitutional filed a supplemental complaint Friday asking the court to appoint a "master" to work out a redistricting plan based entirely on population.

The suit, originally filed by the League of Nebraska Municipalities and mayors of the more populous communities in the state, is opposing the use of the area factor in setting out districts for the election of state legislators.

In the supplemental complaint filed Friday, attorneys for the plaintiffs listed "practical applications" of the present "complete and unassailable control" of rural areas in the Legislature, and the factors which have rendered the legislators from more populous areas "impotent."

Would Continue

The suit, alleging that the present situation would continue under the redistricting legislation passed by the 1963 Legislature, stated that members from the most populous areas were not given "seniority privileges but were given insignificant committee assignments . . . even though some were legislators of long experience and outstanding ability and with the reputation of being absolutely fair to all sections of the state . . ."

The complaint referred to the majority of men representing rural areas and interests as "so busy in serving their own areas and in perpetuating themselves in power . . . that needed legislation was not enacted . . . legislative blunders were committed."

Listed as "blunders" were failure to:

—Appropriate funds to pay for murals for the State Capitol.

—Pass valid time-sales legislation.

No School Aid

—Pass legislation for state aid to school districts that needed it.

—Pass legislation to consolidate more of the "antiquated school districts."

—Pass legislation to modernize the state's school system and to make it fully accredited.

Taxation

—Pass legislation to simplify tax levying and collection procedures and distribute the load of state and local taxation.

—Allow cities and villages the right to resort to other types of taxation than the tangible property tax.

The complaint also noted that on Aug. 20, Gov. Frank

Morrison had announced he would call a special session of the Legislature "to do the work the 73rd session of the Legislature failed to do."

The 1963 Legislature passed LB629 and 796 increasing the number of legislative districts from 43 to 49, changing the boundaries on the basis of population and giving between 20-30% weight to area.

Divested of Rights

The supplemental filing asked that the Legislature action be declared unconstitutional because votes in the more populous districts "are not as effective as votes in the less populous areas" and thus the urban area voters are divested of their rights to equal representation.

The suit also alleges:

—The court erred in declaring the league and represen-

Senators Advance Rail Bill

Washington (AP)—Moving to block a nationwide railroad strike set for Thursday, the Senate Commerce Committee approved Friday legislation to settle the lingering work-rules dispute through binding arbitration.

The measure would submit the four-year-old controversy to a seven-member board to be made up of two representatives from the five on-train unions, two from management and three from the public. The latter would be designated by the union-management members if they can agree on nominees; otherwise, President Kennedy would make the selections.

The board would be charged with final arbitration of the two toughest issues—firemen's jobs and train-crew makeup. The parties would negotiate seven lesser points of difference but if they fail to reach voluntary agreement, these, too, would go to the board for settlement.

Quickly Denounced

The carriers, who hold the key to the start of a strike, had no immediate comment on the pending legislation but it was quickly and strongly denounced by the unions.

The Presidents of the five brotherhoods in a joint statement said the proposal is for "compulsory arbitration, and in violation of all tenets of free and collective bargaining."

They added the bill would deprive 200,000 on-train workers of their right to strike, "their only weapon against the imposition of onerous and unsafe working conditions."

Action Termed 'Short-Sighted'

... $585 MILLION SLASH OK'D

Washington (AP)—The House carved $585 million more out of the foreign aid program Friday in a Republican-led defeat for President Kennedy. He termed the action "short-sighted, irresponsible and dangerously partisan."

Republicans and Southern Democrats teamed up at the last minute to cut the foreign aid authorization bill about $1 billion under the figure Kennedy had asked.

A few hours later, the President went before newsmen microphones and television cameras at the White House to lay the blame on House Republicans, saying only nine per cent of them voted against the slash.

Recalling that he had supported foreign aid as a Democratic senator during the Republican Eisenhower administration, Kennedy said, "This year is the first time that the leadership of one party led the attack on it."

GOP Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana and other members of the Republican leadership voted for the cuts. Nebraska representatives Beermann, Martin and Cunningham voted for the cuts. The vote was 222 to 188.

The House action came as a surprise since the House in a long session Thursday and Thursday night had turned back all efforts to trim the size of the bill. On those preliminary votes, members were not recorded.

Embarrassing Failure

For the House leadership of Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., it was an embarrassing failure to hold Democratic ranks in line. Just before the House convened McCormack smiled confidently when reporters asked if he had "soldiers" lined up, and he said he hoped so.

As the vote progressed in the hushed House, McCormack's lieutenants conferred in the aisle with worried frowns. When the result was tallied, the deep slash had been approved. It was the most decisive numerical defeat the House has handed Kennedy.

The bill then went on to passage by a 224-186 vote, sending it to the Senate.

What happened? Only 16 Republicans voted against the cut, while 66 Democrats voted for it. The bill ordinarily commands strong bipartisan support. The number of members absent and not voting was not large enough to change the outcome.

Never a popular program in Congress, foreign aid was in more than usual trouble this year because of a prospective whopping budget deficit-coupled with a proposed tax cut.

Asked $4.5 Billion

Kennedy had asked for $4.5 billion, although that itself was a reduction from the $4.9 billion he originally proposed. He trimmed his request after receiving a report suggesting reductions from an advisory committee headed by retired Gen. Lucius D. Clay.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee cut the request for $4.5 billion down to $4.1 billion. Friday's House action reduced it to $3.5 billion.

As the House began debate on the bill three days ago, Kennedy had urged that no drastic cuts be made.

In his statement Friday, he called on both parties in the Senate to raise the amount so that when the measure returns to the House for compromise that body will have an opportunity to reconsider what he called its "shocking and thoughtless" action.

Kennedy used such adjectives as "drastic," "unwarranted," and "unwise" to describe the slash, which he said would critically affect forces of freedom now on the move around the world.

Sets A Ceiling

This authorization bill merely sets a ceiling on the program for the current fiscal year. The program faces more trouble when the appropriation bill providing the actual money comes up later.

Both appropriations chairman Clarence Cannon, D-Mo., and Rep. Otto Passman, D-La., who heads the foreign aid subcommittee, voted to cut the authorization.

House Democratic Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma put as optimistic a face on the defeat as he could.

"I think this cut will merely be a credit against the Passman cuts," he said. "I think Mr. Passman already had his knife pretty sharp." Passman always does his best to cut the appropriation bill far below the authorization.

U.S. Touches Off Underground Test

Washington (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission announced another underground nuclear test was set off Friday at its Nevada test site.

The test is the third since this country agreed with Russia and Great Britain on a treaty which would ban all except underground testing.

Friday's test was of low yield, meaning a blast equivalent of less than 20,000 tons of TNT. Other underground tests were set off on Aug. 12 and Aug. 15.

-ON TOUR- Tito, Mr. K Dance

Kotor, Yugoslavia (AP)—Premier Khrushchev and President Tito took a rollicking tour through Montenegro Friday, danced with pretty peasant girls, then embarked on a cruise up the Adriatic Sea.

The two communist leaders acted like a couple of skylarking tourists. They motored through the mountainous countryside, admired the scenery, posed for pictures, sampled the local wine and joshed each other about girls.

It was clearly the most fun Khrushchev had had since he arrived in Yugoslavia three days ago for two weeks of vacation and work.

Smiling and beaming, the stumpy little Kremlin chief soon had Tito, normally staid and reserved, acting the same way.

At Cetinje, the picturesque ancient capital of the old kingdom of Montenegro, the Khrushchev-Tito party stopped for lunch in a tree-shaded garden.

After wines, fish and varieties of regional meat delicacies, they lined up with local folk in peasant dress to pose for pictures.

Oriental Style
Throughout the lunch Montenegrins serenaded the visitors with folk songs played string instruments and sung in wailing Oriental style.

As Khrushchev and Tito rose to leave, the peasants broke into a fiery foot-stamping circle dance called the Kolo.

Yugoslav vice president Alexander Rankovic in a burst of high spirits suddenly joined them. Khrushchev and his wife, Nina, and Tito and his wife, Jovanka, quickly followed and soon the peasants, the pretty girls, the party leaders and the wives were swirling about with locked arms.

As they danced the musicians sang a tune first popular when Tito was bounced out of the Soviet bloc in 1948 for following his own course.

"Comrade Tito, Comrade Tito," went the words, "we swear to you we will not depart from your line."

The Kolo is danced two steps to the right and two steps to the left. Westerners at the scene commented it was a fitting commentary to the way Tito has danced his political way since the break with Moscow 15 years ago.

St. Louis Decoy Squad Catches Thief Looting Auto

. . . AS NEWS CAMERA RECORDS ROBBERY ATTEMPT

St. Louis (AP)—The St. Louis police decoy squad scored another victory in its continuing battle against street crime Friday night, providing an alert news photographer with an exceptional series of pictures.

Men and women detectives of the squad usually roam the streets at night dressed in casual clothing and inviting attack by robbers, would-be rapists or muggers.

Changed Tactics
But concerned with increasing thefts from parked cars, the plainclothes group changed its tactics. Sgt. Murray Beech loaded up a car with articles that would look inviting to a thief. Then the decoys retired to nearby doorways and windows and waited.

The temptation proved too strong for ex-convict Jerome Young, 22. He broke into the car, grabbed an empty clarinet case and a camera and fled. Decoy officer Otto Hirsch was close behind him and patrolmen Hollis Taylor and Henry Mitchell were waiting for him.

Waited 2 Days
St. Louis Post-Dispatch photographer Renold Ferguson—a former police officer himself—had been waiting with the decoys for two days. He took a series of pictures of an unsuccessful attempt at theft from beginning to its end at headquarters.

Young was charged in a warrant with stealing, tampering with an auto and parole violation. The parole office was notified of his apparent Federal Reformatory at El Reno, Okla.

Cushman's Cast Iron Operation To Go By December

Cushman's cast iron engine operation will be eliminated by December, general manager Wayne Cooper said Friday.

He announced the timetable while addressing the Lincoln Kiwanis Club on the effects and problems in a merger of larger and smaller companies.

Cushman some time ago became a division of the larger Outboard Marine motors firm.

Cooper said after the merger, a decision was made to eliminate the cast iron foundry and establish aluminum engine manufacture for the two and three-wheel vehicles.

Outboard, he added, had an outstanding cast iron foundry.

Implementation of the decision made, Cooper said, has been delayed by many new ideas and modifications on aluminum prototype engines.

The general manager gave no indication when the 100-acre industrial tract in south Lincoln might be used as a new plant site.

Barry, Thurmond Rap McNamara

Washington (AP)—Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., accused Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara Friday of making "deceptive" and "misleading" statements to win support for the limited nuclear test-ban treaty.

Somewhat similar criticism was implied in milder language by Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., who also challenged the contention that the United States will maintain nuclear superiority over Russia under the pact.

Goldwater said "catch phrases and qualifications" have been used to make the military and civilian views of the treaty sound compatible. He added:

"The job of the Senate is to make absolutely sure that, beyond the shadow of a doubt, the civilian optimism and the military reservations do not conceal any significant disagreements as to the impact upon this nation's security of the test ban proposal."

The two senators, both reserve major generals, are members of the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee that has been holding closed sessions on the pact to ban all nuclear tests except those under ground.

Goldwater told the Senate McNamara's claim that this country is superior is based on U.S. possession of tens of thousands of nuclear warheads. But, Goldwater said, the treaty may permit the Soviet Union to forge ahead in delivery systems.

"It is not enough to talk of our strength in numbers alone," he said. "It is the readiness to strike, the real readiness to defend ourselves that counts."

Kearney Unit 1st To Leave Camp Ripley

Early Friday morning the 12th Engineer Battalion, commanded by Lt. Col. Carl Oran with headquarters in Kearney, departed Camp Ripley, Minn., for the trek home.

The State Military Department said some 400 men from Kearney, Holdrege, Hastings, McCook, and Grand Island were in the group leaving after two weeks of intensive training.

Maj. George Fairfield of Kearney, the convoy commander, said the engineers stopped overnight Friday at Rock Rapids, Iowa, and Saturday night will be a stop-over in York.

At 5 a.m. Sunday the engineer convoy will break up at York for travel by unit convoys to home stations. Arrival times at home stations Sunday are: Hastings and Grand Island, 8 a.m.; Kearney, 9 a.m.; Holdrege, 9:30 a.m.; McCook, 12 noon, according to the Military Department.

Thurmond, in making his accusations against McNamara, declared at one point in a Senate speech:

"A confidence man rarely tells his mark that the bogus stock he is peddling is worth a specific cash value — he just uses a deceptive and successful build-up with an overly strong implication."

Thurmond took particular issue with McNamara's statements comparing American and Russian efforts in developing a missile killer system, saying:

"The clear fact is that we are not ahead of the Soviets in either the technology or weaponry in the ABM (anti-ballistic missile) field. The secretary did not, of course, specifically say that we were."

53 Will Take 2-Day Tour Of CNPPID

Holdrege (AP) — Colorado, Wyoming, Kansas and Nebraska irrigation district personnel will spend two days touring the Central Nebraska Public Power and Irrigation District here August 28 and 29.

Fifty-three people, all members of the Four State Irrigation Council, will make the two day study tour via chartered buses and will concentrate on Central's irrigation and supply canal divisions.

Of particular interest will be the automatic radio gates on the supply canal. These electrically operated gates maintain a constant water level in the 75-mile-long canal. As the canal is used both in summer and winter, gate heaters keep the gates ice-free in the winter.

The heating system and the automatic equipment were designed and installed by Central's engineers.

Visitors in the irrigation division will see pre-cast concrete structures used for canal drops, checks and turn-outs.

These structures, being manufactured by the district to replace wooden ones, are unique in design in that they can be manufactured and placed with equipment and personnel that most irrigation districts have available.

Central's engineering department figures the district will save over $500,000 in replacing 3,000 wooden structures by utilizing the pre-cast method over casting structures in place.

A highlight of the second day of the tour will be a demonstration on pouring, curing and installing one of these structures.

Seeds Of Own Destruction

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

We are not quite sure what it all means but are fascinated by a Canadian psychology report which draws a parallel between learning, death and the destiny or fate of nations. The report was made by Dr. Stanley A. Rudin of Dalhousie University, Halifax, N.S., Canada. The key consideration in this subject is the motivating force with which children are instilled through that which they are taught.

Studies by Dr. Rudin show that certain kinds of death can be associated with the motivating forces instilled in young people. More violent deaths such as murder, suicide, and acute alcoholism come from societies with aggressive behavior patterns. These patterns, in turn, are found as the product of adults who, as children, were motivated with a strong desire for power. Deaths due to such things as ulcers and high blood pressure are associated with repressive behavior patterns and these patterns are the product of adults who, as children, were motivated with a strong desire for achievement as opposed to power.

Unfortunately, the report made on Dr. Rudin's findings did not elaborate on what he meant by "power" and "achievement." Nations with people motivated by the power urge tend to be totalitarian and warlike and are most likely to start wars. The nations of achievement-motivated people just finish the wars. This psychologist's studies show a 50-year increase in the U.S. in the power motivation factor. Russia, on the other hand, shows people with a growing achievement motivation factor.

Now, all of this boiled down would indicate that the next war, at least if it doesn't come too soon, might be started by the U.S. and finished by the Russians. Presumably, this would mean our defeat unless we and the Russians were on the same side.

What is obviously needed for a complete understanding of Dr. Rudin is a great deal more information and this we don't have at the moment. It is sufficient for the time being, however, to contemplate the direction in which our own people are heading. Dr. Rudin maintains that we are moving in the direction of power as opposed to achievement which is moving us in the direction of aggression. It would seem that there are signs that we are and signs that we are not. Certainly, there is always some movement toward power on the part of some people. Power is basically a matter of control, of jurisdiction over your environment or your associates or both. Practically everyone has some power of some degree or other.

Making Strange Bed Fellows

Careless accusations have hurt many a cause and many an individual and how they are made has been clearly shown by Russia. The Soviet Union has charged a coalition exists between the Chinese Reds and the political far right of the United States. Both the Chinese Reds and the U.S. far right are put together because they are both against signing of the nuclear test ban treaty.

This is a good example of just how ridiculous one can get when blinded by prejudice and misinformation. The far right in the U.S. and the Chinese Reds have nothing in common at all. The two groups are opposed to the nuclear test ban treaty but for quite different reasons. And strangely, the far right itself might stand to gain the greatest lesson from its alleged association with the Chinese Reds.

It is the far right that makes a practice of using the tag of communism as a

Parents have power over their children and children come to have power over one another, over a pet and over certain situations. But if people scolded for power alone, the nation would soon be a sorry mess and it is a poor parent who fails to inculcate this into the minds of their children. The parent who merely controls his children until they reach an independent age or time of life has not coupled achievement with that control. To achieve along with control, the parent must train the child along lines that will be profitable to him and to society. Thus, the parent hopes that the child comes to understand that power or control is only one factor in the world and that the more important consideration should be right or justice.

The child motivated only by power is the one who takes his ball and bat and goes home if the game isn't played as he sees fit. But the child motivated by achievement, by a sense of right and justice, will play the game as the majority prefer, even if he is a part of the minority.

The power-motivated adult, we would think, would find some way of reaching the top in his business or profession. He would succeed or fail in this conquest and would prosper when he got there in accordance with the achievement factor that also motivated him. If he made the presidency of his firm and the firm then went broke, that individual would be too highly power-motivated and too little achievement-motivated.

Some people such as politicians seek power or control as the only means of achievement. It is through the power of their office that they are able to achieve things.

But it is not essential that there be widespread or great control in order to have achievement. The most lowly person in the world can achieve because achievement is a relative matter — measured according to the achievement potential the individual has. There is also the question of which comes first, the power urge or the aggressive nature. We wonder what it is with which young Americans are brought up that would cause them to be overly infused with the need for power.

We wonder, too, if there is any nation not imbued with quite a drive for power. Power is often freedom and what nation of people has ever willingly surrendered its freedom? It would seem that a proper balance between power and achievement is the perfect combination but not always within our capacity even to recognize, much less to realize.

means of attack. It has a habit of branding as Red any idea or person in disagreement with them. Thus, they would brand as communistic anyone who wanted a test ban treaty because such a treaty constituted an understanding with Russia. The far right itself has not yet learned that one part in common does not necessarily constitute a whole in common.

That the United States and Russia might both occupy a place in the world does not reduce them to one and the same thing. That the two nations might agree on something does not make them one in all that exists between or among them. To seek an accommodation with some conflicting force is not necessarily to join up with it. We should learn from the Moscow association of Red China and the U.S. far right that serious injustices can be done by careless and irresponsible insinuations.

Jap-Korean Accord

At times history seems to repeat itself. At other times it turns back to let one see the other side of the coin. Take Korea and Japan, for instance.

In 1919 Japan forcibly annexed Korea and held it until the close of World War II. It was a relationship of bitterness, albeit Japan invested heavily in an improved Korean economy.

Today Japan and South Korea are negotiating to settle their long standing disagreements. It is possible that Japanese know-how will return.

Korea's liberation fell short of hopes. Red intrusion overran the former Japanese industrial and power centers in North Korea and introduced a tyranny worse than ever. One war later, South Korea remained in freedom south of the 38th parallel, but as a dependent on the United States. Despite millions in foreign aid the South Koreans have not been able to establish a modern and productive economy. It is an instance where the ideal and the factual remain apart.

The case for Japanese return reads better than it did 35 years ago. Then it amounted to the arrival of a conqueror. Now it could be in the role of a business partner. Japan greatly needs new fields in which to project its post war progress. South Korea needs progress. The free world has an economic as well as armament contest going on with the Red world. A few new beach heads of that character would amount to a definite western gain.

made isotopes were limited to 10 grams of each — less than 1-15th of a pound.

Limited? The fact that these beyond-uranium elements exist at all is one of the atomic miracles of our time. To produce them the scientists who work with reactors had to turn back nature's clock billions — yes, billions — of years.

The age of the earth is about 4.4 billion years. The half-life of neptunium-237 is only 2.2 million years. So if any of this radioactive element existed naturally when the earth was formed, that original amount would have been cut in half 2,000 times by now. This is another way of saying it would all have decayed save a fraction too tiny to detect.

But now, so to speak, we've recreated the stuff in such plentiful quantities that the AEC can sell it to qualified customers in "unlimited" amounts. There's a joker in that "unlimited," for prices remain unchanged. Americium-241, with a half-life of only 490 years, costs $1,500 a gram and neptunium-237 costs $500 a gram. At such rates nobody is likely to start ordering by the ton.

Oak Ridge, operated for AEC by Union Carbide, is the nation's chief supplier of isotopes. Removal of the 10-gram limit allows Oak Ridge to fill industrial requirements for americium. Neutron sources are used chiefly in oil well logging. Requirements of American companies now exploring for oil overseas have boosted demand for americium.

More Convinced Reds Want Peace

GAGRA, Georgia, U.S.S.R. — This interview with Khrushchev was more hurried than last because he was leaving for Yugoslavia.

"Because of this," he said, "I can't invite you to go swimming. The last time you were here, I remember that you swam like a seal while I wore a rubber tube. I couldn't keep up with you."

However, Khrushchev showed us his beautiful tiled pool, 75 feet long with a glass partition which, at the push of an electric button, slides out to enclose the pool from cold air. It was anything but cold on this sunny Georgian afternoon and Khrushchev wore a loose Ukrainian shirt embroidered in blue at the collar, without a necktie.

Four of his grandchildren played on the beach below. Children grow fast and in two years it seemed as if they had shot up like beanstalks. Two years before Khrushchev had complained that his doctor was making the children capitalistic by bribing them with candy. This year they looked too old to be bribed.

Down the coast half a mile Khrushchev pointed to the spot where the Soviet government is building a rest house for 5,000 people. He didn't seem concerned about the fact it will completely destroy his privacy.

Khrushchev, now 69 years old, last spring talked about retiring but outwardly he had not changed in the two years since I saw him. His hands looked young, his girth about the same. There were no wrinkles in his face, although he did look tired around the eyes.

When I asked how he kept looking so young, he replied, "It is the good socialist life I lead."

As we drove back from Khrushchev's summer place along a cypress-lined road along the Black Sea, we stopped briefly at the little town of Gagra, where almost immediately, our car was surrounded by a hundred curious, friendly Russians, many speaking English, all asking about the United States of America. As the car waited, an interesting thing happened. Khrushchev's chauffeur turned on the radio in Khrushchev's own car and listened to the Voice of America. A few months ago it wouldn't have happened but it's happening now all over the socialist world. And when it came to ebbing these columns, the telegraph operators said they would be glad to send twice as many if it would help the cause of peace.

Two years ago I reported after seeing Khrushchev that he was a potential friend of the United States and sincerely wanted peace. I was criticized unmercifully by some people for saying this and I was called everything from a sucker to a fellow-traveller. But more than ever I am convinced I was right. Furthermore I am also convinced that a great majority of the Russian people are devoutly, almost fanatically, for peace.

Rails And Rights Vexing Congress

WASHINGTON — The most anxious congressional conversations now taking place are not about the test-ban treaty, foreign aid, or the crises in Viet Nam and the Middle East, but about the new breakdown in the railroad work rules negotiations.

Unless some way can be found to settle the dispute or freeze it for awhile, the threatened strike will start at 12:01 a.m., August 29. That is only a few hours after the massive civil rights demonstration here is supposed to disperse.

The immense problems inherent in the size and scope of the demonstration are being handled in an extraordinary display of official and civic planning. What is perhaps most remarkable is the understanding being shown by Washington residents and its business community.

Individually and severally, they are voluntarily taking steps to see that the difficulties of accommodating such crowds — a late estimate is 200,000 — are minimized. These steps amount to a one-day holiday for thousands of workers and are made necessary by the relatively small space in the heart of the city which the demonstration will preempt.

There are some signs that in other cities the demonstration is viewed as a spectacle, even a circus, meriting the attention of sightseers. Politically sophisticated Washington knows better. It recognizes the proposed march as a civil demonstration which, with malice aforethought in some quarters or even just a little bad luck, could turn into a civil disturbance.

Congress recognized this promptly. It was soon agreed that it should stay on the job and hold at least token sessions.

The present nightmare of the leaders is that they will find themselves working under the guns of a railroad strike during the hours they hope to put on a quietly reassuring picture to the demonstrators of serene men at work.

Procrastination is the besetting sin of any Congress and this one in particular. Its key figures do recognize how very high in emotional content could be a joining of railroad debate and the looming presence of civil rights demonstrators who must find ways to reach home.

They now plan to spend the morning seeing the march leaders. They have ordered that the galleries be cleared every 15 minutes August 28 so that no claque can entrench themselves and the visitors expected can get an equal chance to look on.

Such details are typical of the advance planning here. It echoes that of the march leaders, who are even telling their people what kind of sandwiches it is best to carry.

Adding to the general congestion will be 3,000 police, members of the fire department, army and marine units and national guardsmen. The proclaimed intent is to insure a peaceful demonstration.

ON TARGET

By DON WALTON

That's the last straw.

Maybe they don't like our President or our way of economic life or our flag or even our hot dogs and hamburgers. But some things are sacred.

The Italian Communist newspaper Unita has a s s a l u t e d "Peanuts." Lucy, it said, is a Walton fascist. Patty and Violet are called "simply stupid."

Poor Linus "has a suicide complex," the Reds say. "He saves himself by carrying around a blanket which substitutes for the motherly bosom."

Snoopy is "a nervous wreck. He varies between his own life as a dog and the aspiration to become another beast or man."

And poor old Charlie Brown: "He is the only one who is precariously balanced between mental health and a nervous breakdown... faced with the strangeness of his friends, he is overwhelmed or exclaims his alarming 'Good Grief.'"

Good grief.

We noticed an item that ancient legislators in Greece who proposed a new law were compelled to appear with a noose around their necks.

They were strangled if the measure was vetoed.

No laws were introduced for 200 years.

And now another contribution from that sinister fellow who sneaks in an offering now and then. It goes something like this:

Educational television is expanding in Nebraska—not only area-wise but in content.

If this new network is to be successful, it must capture the interest of the viewers.

For example: "Tune in again next week when Col. Dan Casey stars in 'State Patrolman.' Next week, Colonel Casey will be faced with grave danger in 'Driving Against the Football Crowd on U.S. 34.'"

Or: "Will Professor Zabracki be able to square the circle? Will he discover that addition error before he ruins the whole equation? Is Mr. X really Pi-R-squared? Tune in next week for another exciting chapter in Math 133."

Or: "This is the class for those who for some reason have developed a mental block against learning and who each week are faced by the devastating logic and cunning of Eleanor Mess. Tune in next week for 'The Un-Teachables.'"

How about commercials?

"This is your friendly innkeeper, Warden Sigler, inviting you to spend one to five —and I don't mean 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.—with us."

"Does your wife nag you? Do you worry about where your next meal is coming from? If so, consider the Nebraska Penal Complex after your next crime wave.

"We offer clean sheets weekly, movies once a week, plenty of fresh air and exercise. Don't be taken in by that Louisiana-in-the-winter bit from Baton Rouge. In the Colorado Pen, you don't look at the Rockies, you bust them up with a sledge hammer."

"And, don't go to Washington for a federal sentence when you can get that same service at the state level. Remember, scenic old Alcatraz is closed — and you may get sultry, hot Leavenworth."

"So, felons, next time ask for the Nebraska Penal and Correctional Complex. Just write Pen; that's P-E-N, Box 222, Lincoln, Nebraska."

"And for the next 50 years, you can enjoy the cuisine of No. 136723, the world-renowned French chef who will be with us until 2013."

"Remember, if you are an old customer, you may have your old cell back."

Or: "This is Hugo S.r.b, your friendly clerk of the Legislature, inviting you to join us here Monday through Friday, January through July, in odd-numbered years to sit in on 'The Session.' Sing along with the Four Senators, featuring 'The Birthday Song.' There's always exciting good times."

"Every Friday you can enjoy the Battle Royal as the Omaha delegation takes on the rest of the Legislature in a tense, thrilling struggle over what time to return on Monday."

And last: "Shop with the Game Commission — we give stamps."

What a nut!

The Webs

Lincoln, Neb. Mrs. Burdick wrote in Tuesday's paper about the great beauty of a spider web. Before she and the rest of The Star's readers get carried away, I would like to remind them that this web is not meant to be a thing of beauty. It is meant to be and is an instrument of death.

New, the question is, is there any comparison of the spider and its web to Barry Goldwater and his entanglement of supporters in the John Birch Society? Is he accepting their support? Are they supporting him? Is Tom Anderson, editor of "Farm and Ranch," supporting him? Is Tom Anderson really a member of the John Birch inner council? Did Tom Anderson advocate that farmers carry guns? Is this inciting violence? Does Tom Anderson really believe the Supreme Court should be impeached en masse? Does Ralph Beermann really believe as Tom Anderson when he inserted some of Anderson's writings into the Congressional Record? Do members of the "Gold for Goldwater" group believe in the philosophy of "better to be Red than dead?"

I would remind Star readers that all that glitters is not Gold, even though it glitters. This shimmering scheme of little government, no income tax, free market, large farms, no union dues and high interest rates could be the destruction of us all.

LEERY

Looking Ahead

Lincoln, Neb. I noticed the letter from "Fed Up" in the August 21 Star. Unless one is a shut-in, there is no excuse for not being a rolling stone. And if one is a shut-in, there are still travel books, records of music and television, both educational or entertaining.

Being neither a world traveler, nor one who has lost his curiosity for what is new, I feel sorry for this writer. The Lincoln of his youth should now amaze and delight him, for there is much to be seen by way of progress, from the early days to this era of fine buildings, paved streets, our renowned State Capitol building, imposing structures of learning, hospitals, churches, the new Interstate Highway reaching from sea to sea. There are art centers and shopping centers, fine motels and hotels for tourist travel.

There are rich farm lands and pastures for fat cattle and sleek horses. The rolling hills tag along the highway. The streams sparkle in the moonlight. In one's own garden there are scarlet tomatoes, watermelons and pumpkins ripening. Has "Fed Up" seen these things? Empty buildings are not forerunners of a ghost town. It is an indication of replacing the old with the new. It is not the city that is slipping but those who refuse to live every moment of each day.

PROGRESSIVE

Cow Palace, 1964

Lincoln, Neb. When Rocky and Barry come down the track neck and neck in a probable photo-finish; when a compromise candidate is sorely needed to avoid a party split, Dick Nixon will be ready, willing and eager to answer his party's call for a dark horse who can play the middle against both ends, or vice versa.

When I become unhappy as I read the foreign news, I turn my smile into a comedy to dissipate my blues. A California scene appears that drives my gloom away: A smile adorns my countenance, and goes to my dismay.

I visualize two elephants no standing side by side: The GOP (elephant) and the Democrats (elephant) hope to ride. But as he stands, one foot on each, I chuckle in delight. For one big beast is headed left, and one is headed right.

The elephants go right and left, nor does my smile diminish: No camera lens is wide enough to film that photo-finish. So I shrug the picture; his remarks I can't repeat.

As he leads in the arena—but not upon his feet.

Grandpa Says

Guide Rock, Neb. I see by the papers that the farmer is getting only 36 cents out of every dollar the consumer spends for food.

Grandpa says there is one thing he can tell anyone for sure. The only thing on them critters that grows any bigger after they leave the farm is the price, so what is paid for from then on ain't meat. Grandpa says he saw one piece of old cow layin' in one of them butcher shops with a fancy price on it and that meat was absolutely purple, it was so ashamed of its price.

Grandpa says them middle men have got so, any more, they don't save the squeal out of the hogs. They just wait and get it out of the customer when he pays the bill.

DOBBIN BYRD

The Good Life

Lincoln, Neb. After a great abundance of stories and pictures on race riots, Khrushchev's latest outbursts, railroad disputes, juvenile delinquency and all the other troubles at home and abroad, to say nothing of outer space, it is quite refreshing once again to see and read of what the 4-H youngsters are accomplishing in their many worthwhile projects. The county and State Fair competition gives them a goal to work toward all year long, and d work they do. And a healthier, happier bunch of young people you'll never see.

Anyone can have the big city life, with its so-called advantages. It isn't too often that a country kid goes wrong. Farm youngsters grow up close enough to the soil and animals and all the other things that hold the real and true meaning of life to give them a perspective that will carry them on through their adult years.

Securing Funds For Retirement Housing Not Difficult

By ROBERT PETERSON

As this column has often said, it's relatively easy to secure funds to erect housing for the elderly. About all a reputable group needs to do is (a) provide the land and funds to employ an architect, and (b) apply for FHA insured funds to be repaid within 40 years.

By following this simple procedure a group associated with the Presbyterian Hospital here can point with pride to a splendid seven-story residence for elders, located near the hospital in an attractive residential area. It cost about two million dollars and has 137 guest suites each with bath for folks past 62. It's non-profit and non-sectarian, and the typical guest is a genteel widow or widower in his 70s with religious interests and cultural background.

"The financing of a residence such as this is computed with actuarial tables based on longevity figures," said Gary Slay, the dynamic young administrator of Park Manor, which is Denver's largest residence for elders. "We charge an entrance fee averaging about $7,500, and then $150 a month which includes three meals a day, weekly maid service in guest rooms, and medical care."

"All entrance fees are applied against our loan, and based on the turnover we can expect from normal mortality, we know that construction costs plus interest will be paid off in 40 years."

He took me on a tour of the building which is furnished throughout in Danish Modern, with warm yellow and tan colors predominating. Guests take their meals in a handsome carpeted dining room on the first floor with floor-to-ceiling windows looking out on a rolling lawn and nearby residential areas. Of the home's 35 paid employees, 17 work in the kitchen or as waitresses. Interestingly, the chef is a man 80-years-old and he must be good, because none of the guests with whom I talked had any criticisms of the food.

A typical guest suite consists of a small entrance hall, a living and bedroom combined, and a bath. Some suites have balconies large enough for two or three chairs. Each floor of the building has a central sitting room where guests can visit.

Why do guests move to a residence such as this in preference to maintaining their own homes? "I moved in because I was lonely," was the candid response of Mrs. Elsie W. Adams, 75, an alert, animated widow who has been a teacher most of her adult life and is still principal of English Studies at nearby Hillel Academy.

"My family was gone and I didn't like cooking, eating alone, and feeling out of things. This residence has been the ideal solution."

Although I'm still working it's wonderful to have my home here, take my meals in the dining room, enjoy the companionship of others in my own age group who have similar interests, and know that I'll be cared for if I become sick."

As our elder population increases, more and more residences of this kind will spring into being. Many people will prefer to continue in their own quarters, but others will find their needs best met through group living with its attendant companionship and security.

If you would like a booklet "Planning Your Coming Retirement" write to this column c/o The Lincoln Star enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents to cover handling costs.

Star Carrier Richard Von Rentzell

Richard Von Rentzell is the Lincoln Star carrier-salesman on Route B818. He delivers to subscribers on his route area which extends from North 52nd on the west to North 57th on the east and from Adams Street on the south to Gladstone Street on the north.

Richard, the 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Von Rentzell of 5530 Gladstone Street, attends Saint Patrick's Parochial School where he is going to be in the seventh grade. He lists Art as his favorite subject in school, and ranks music a close second. He plays the flute in the school band. Richard's main hobbies are model building and all phases of outdoor life, especially hunting. He and his father have done quite a bit of camping, hunting, etc. with Richard's older brothers and the rest of the family.

Richard and his family attend Saint Patrick's Catholic Church, where Richard serves every Sunday morning, after delivering his route, at the early mass, as an altar boy.

Richard puts his total earnings of $28 every four weeks into a savings account for his future education. At present he is undecided as to what he wants to study, however if he puts as much effort into his studies as he does his paper route he will succeed no matter what line he takes up.

This summer Richard has spent most of his time working with his mother and father in Ashland where they operate a transfer and storage firm.

Included were bids on a 108.8 mile Minuteman missile access road construction project in western Nebraska.

Initial work will consist of gravel surfacing, installation of culverts and six bridges on roads leading to the Fort Warren Minuteman Missile Complex in Banner County and northwest Kimball County. Subsequent work will include the rest of Kimball County and all of Cheyenne County.

Another project is for 9.7 miles of interstate construction in Lancaster County near Lincoln.

Senators To Fly To California For Missile Briefing
Approximately 20 Nebraska state senators have accepted invitations to participate in a flying trip to California next month for a briefing on ballistic missiles, the office of Gov. Frank Morrison reported Friday.

The Nebraska senators will leave Sept. 4, traveling in a C-97 plane, and return the following day.

The California destination will be Norton Air Force Base headquarters of the Ballistic System Division of the Air Force Systems Command.

Gov. Morrison will not make the trip but will be represented by his administrative assistant, Norman Otto. Some news representatives also are being invited, Otto said.

Red East German Army Engineers Reinforcing Wall
Berlin (AP)—Communist East German army engineer units were reinforcing the wall dividing Berlin, apparently to make it even more difficult for refugees to escape.

Already the most formidable fortification in the heart of Europe, the wall was being strengthened with heavier concrete slabs and additional barbed wire.

Several hundred East German soldiers were working along the 26½-mile long concrete wall. They were also building new observation towers and search lights were being installed at several points.

Bank To Provide $3,750 Annually For Professorship
Under a new agreement the National Bank of Commerce Trust and Savings, Lincoln, will provide $3,750 annually for the establishment and maintenance of a regents professorship at the University of Nebraska.

Harry R. Haynie, president of the University Foundation which will administer the gift, said it is the second provided by Lincoln banking interests since the program began in 1961.

Last year, he said, the First National Bank and Trust of Lincoln made a similar agreement, previously announced, to provide an anonymous gift to the program.

With it the university established a regents professorship of education, awarded to Dr. Royce Knapp, a specialist in social studies and civic education.

The new professorship brings to a total of eight the number the university has received.

Emergency Loans Are Available In Eleven Counties
Gov. Frank B. Morrison announced Friday that Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman has made emergency loans available through the Farmers Home Administration in 11 Nebraska Counties.

Morrison's announcement said the action was taken because of substantial damage to crop and grazing land caused by prolonged drought, heat, wind and hail storms.

Counties designated for the loan assistance include Boone, Garfield, Greeley, Howard, Lincoln, Logan, Nance, Platte, Sherman, Valley and Wheeler.

Farmers can obtain information about emergency loans from local county offices of the Farmers Home Administration, Gov. Morrison said.

The emergency loans are designed to permit continuation of normal farming and livestock operations and draw three per cent interest.

Seek Supplemental Time Sales Opinion

By The Associated Press

An attorney for the side of business in Nebraska's time sales litigation told the State Supreme Court Friday that if the court is going to abrogate all time sales, the action should be applied only to future transactions, and not to the millions of dollars worth of contracts already executed.

The supplemental brief in support of a motion for rehearing was prepared by Clarence A. Davis of Lincoln, attorney for the defendant in the case which led the supreme court last June to hold Nebraska's 1959 Installment Sales Act to be unconstitutional. The case listed William F. and Helen Elder as plaintiffs and appellants, with Thomas C. Doerr as defendant and appellee.

The court's decision in the case appeared to render invalid all contracts written under the 1959 legislation where the time sales differential exceeded 9%.

Caused Storm

The Davis brief said the Elder vs. Doerr opinion and subsequent opinions have provoked the greatest financial storm "since the foreclosure days of the '30s."

"The storm will rage," the brief said, "until this court comes down with a supplemental opinion making clear: '1. Whether it intended to hold that all time sales contracts drawn since 1959 and which follow the prescribed form of the '59 act are void.

"2. Whether it is now possible to have a valid common law time sales, or whether the court will call any sale on time payments a loan.

"3. Whether if time sales contracts are to be declared void, if over 9%, the court feels as a matter of policy, to protect the economy of the state, it should make such an opinion operative for future contracts only.

"4. Whether, in view of the criteria so recently laid down by the United States Supreme Court, this court has any doubt of the wisdom, by judicial decree, of overruling legislative judgment regarding the classification of property.

"It is hoped that if this court will lay down a clear, calm supplemental opinion the storm will subside without too many people being drowned."

Precedent

In asking the court to make its ruling applicable only to future contracts, the brief said "there is precedent without number to allow decisions of such momentous effect to take effect only prospectively and not retroactively."

The time sales doctrine—permitting sale on time for a higher price than a sale for cash without the difference being considered interest—"has become a part of the judicial fabric of the state," the brief said.

If the court's opinions really mean to hold that all time price differentials are interest and usurious, "then certainly in common fairness such an opinion should affect only the future. That will prevent the financial catastrophe which is about to ensue from any other holding."

Refuses
In its time sales rulings, the supreme court "refuses to accept the clear unambiguous face of a document (the sales contract) and twists its clear import into something else," the brief contended.

"If we have reached the point where the commercial world cannot rely on the face of a document? Even prima facie? Must it wait until it has this court's ideas no matter what the document may clearly say?"

The brief begged the court not to "go out of its way to upset the whole commercial world by confusing the law of loans and the law of sales, merely because it has the power to do so."

Revised Civil Rights Program Offered

Washington (AP)—The Kennedy administration offered Friday a revised civil rights proposal to provide for mandatory action to prevent racial discrimination in any program receiving federal funds.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy offered the new proposal before the Senate Judiciary Committee as a substitute for a less positive approach which was included in the administration's original civil rights package.

The proposed change brought endorsement by northern senators but was roundly condemned by a southern committee member who said it gave him "mental indigestion."

The original version—known as Title VI of Omnibus Civil Rights Bill—would have provided discretionary authority to withhold federal assistance for programs marked by racial discrimination.

No-Exceptions Policy

The substitute, however, states a no-exceptions policy of non-discrimination in federal aid and says "every federal department and agency shall take action" to end discrimination in any federal aid program which it administers.

It provides that such action may be through withholding of funds or through federal court action to halt the discrimination without denying the funds or by "any other means authorized by law."

State and local agencies would be given the right to appeal to the courts any action taken to compel compliance with the anti-discrimination provision.

'Substantial Improvement'
Sen. Kenneth E. Keating, R-N.Y., said Kennedy has effected "substantial improvement" over the original version while Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, the Senate Republican leader from Illinois, described the change as "considerable improvement."

Keating said Kennedy has approached the program advocated by himself and Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., because as now drawn it "makes the requirement (non-discrimination) mandatory, provides the machinery for its enforcement and allows judicial review to prevent unfairness."

All-Or-Nothing
Keating and Ribicoff have called the original version an all-or-nothing approach. They said it provided only for discretionary withholding of funds, which could cripple or kill a program and thereby hurt its beneficiaries. But made no provision for halting discrimination without cutting off funds.

Pro-Fidel Terrorists Bomb Yank's Home In Venezuela

Caracas, Venezuela (UPI)—A U.S. Air Force sergeant's home was fire-bombed Friday as pro-Castro terrorists stepped up the pace of their violent onslaught against the government.

A Texas Oil Company pipeline was dynamited at Barcelona and three secret service agents were kidnapped at gunpoint at nearby Barquisimeto. Machine fire from a speeding car killed the third policeman in as many days in the streets of Caracas and gravely wounded a fourth.

Police said the terrorists, identified as members of the underground national liberation forces, threw three fire bombs against the windows of the home of Sgt. William Elliott in Maracay. He is from Lorain, Ohio.

Elliott was not home. His wife, although unhurt, was reported to be suffering from shock. Firemen extinguished the blaze within 10 minutes.

The attack on Elliott was the third against members of the U.S. military mission to Venezuela. Last June 5, terrorists raided the mission headquarters in Caracas and stripped several Army men down to their shorts before setting the building afire. Last year, terrorists kidnapped one mission officer and after taking the gun in his car left him unharmed on a lonely road.

Laotian To New Post

United Nations (AP)—Prince Tiao Khampan took over this week as Laos' permanent representative to the United Nations. He replaces Sisouk No Champassak, now the Laotian ambassador to India.

But Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., examined Kennedy at length and at times sharply in an effort to show that the new provision is unreasonable and dangerously broad. Ervin used the "mental indigestion" phrase and sought to show that even a housewife who pays social security taxes for a servant would be subject to discipline under the bill if she practiced discrimination in hiring.

Kennedy conceded that housewives are not specifically exempted in the proposed legislation but said if he were a judge he'd "reach a clear interpretation and conclusion that a housewife is not covered."

Back-To-Book Drive All-Out—Labor Chief

The State Labor Department, along with other state and local agencies, is making "an all-out effort to get Nebraska youth back to school," Labor Commissioner Lambert Eitel reported Friday.

A series of one-minute television spots featuring national personalities has been sent to state commercial TV stations, the commissioner said.

The personalities include baseball star Mickey Mantle, TV performers George Maharis and Merv Griffin, singer Johnny Nash, and U.S. Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz—all of whom point out that high school diplomas are worth dollars and cents, Eitel reported.

'Old Enough ...'

In addition, the department has shown over the state a professional 30-minute film, "When I'm Old Enough, Good bye", which also points up the necessity of completing at least a high school education for future employment purposes.

Eitel said studies show that a person who has obtained a high school degree will earn an average of $78,000 more in his lifetime than a person who has not completed his secondary education.

The commissioner also noted it has been estimated that by the end of this decade only 5% of the working force will be unskilled, which he said emphasizes strongly the need for youth to stay in school and obtain their education.

Students Leading Protests

Saigon, Viet Nam (AP)—With most Buddhist leaders under arrest, students appeared Saturday to have taken leadership of a mass protest movement against South Viet Nam's government.

Two student demonstrations erupted here, the day after student leaders announced a strike.

Police watched silently as one demonstration at Saigon University went itself out. Cheering students gathered around ex-Foreign Minister Vu Van Mau to hear him announce that a faculty delegation called on President Ngo Dinh Diem Friday to demand the release of more than 1,000 Buddhist monks, nuns and students arrested since martial law was declared in the capital Wednesday.

Armed troops and police watched from a street outside the law school building but did not interfere as the students kept cheering Mau for more than an hour.

The second demonstration broke out at the science school building as 500 students urged their dean to resign.

Six trucks of special force soldiers, followed by 10 truckloads of national police, fire trucks, secret police and city police poured into the area and dispersed the students without violence.

One student told a newsman as plainclothes security men watched that the students planned to widen their strike.

"We are not afraid of those men," he said. "If anything happens to us there are thousands of others who will take our place."

The students stepped up their campaign after Diem's government announced that all ministries will take orders from the military during the period of martial law.

Officers of the Vietnamese armed forces—trained, supplied and advised by the United States for a war on communist guerrillas—appeared to be taking control of the ministries under Diem's overall leadership.

SWINGING KISS FOR DAD

Little John F. Kennedy Jr. has a leg-kicking kiss for his daddy, President Kennedy, on the President's arrival at Otis Air Force Base, Mass., Friday. The President arrived for the weekend at his rented home on Squaw Island in Hyannis Port.

James (Not Jesse) Is Linked To Train Heist

London (UPI)—A pint-sized gambler known to the underworld as "The Weasel" was added Friday to Scotland Yard's wanted list in the bizarre case of the great train robbery.

The Yard identified the latest suspect in history's greatest cash robbery—$7.3 million—as 5-foot 4-inch Roy John James, 28, a goldsmith and frequenter of dog race tracks.

James' photograph and description was splashed across the front pages of newspapers and flashed on television screens in a repeat of the maneuver which led to the capture Thursday of bookmaker Charles Wilson barely an hour after his picture was distributed.

Confident Police sources said Yard detectives were confident they were closing in on the gang which escaped with 2½ tons of British banknotes after the raid on the Glasgow-London royal mail train 15 days ago. Hundreds of police units were thrown into a fine comb hunt through the British Isles for the gang members and hideouts where they may have cached their loot.

Seven persons, including three women, thus far have been arrested and charged in the robbery. Four have been accused of taking part in the pre-dawn holdup while the others were charged with receiving stolen money.

The hunt for the bandits now stretches from Spain to Italy with police here still checking out airline passenger lists since the robbery.

An all-points bulletin was issued for a miniature white poodle named Gigi, the pet of James White, 43, also on the Yard's wanted list. Squads of policemen, joined in a search following a report that a dog which may be Gigi was roaming through suburban Essex County after being tossed from a car.

White, a woman identified only as Sherree, a baby and the dog were believed to have been the occupants of an abandoned house trailer in which $84,000 was found.

Two elderly Lincolnites were thrown out of their car in a near-head-on collision at 33rd and St. Paul Ave. Friday afternoon. Driver of the other auto was Sandra L. Bart, 19, of 1825 No. 32nd.

Eighty-year-old Elizabeth V. Soffin of 1830 No. 31st and E. L. Martin, 78, of 6344 Havellack Ave. were taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital. Late Friday they were both listed in fairly good condition.

Mrs. Soffin suffered multiple facial and head lacerations. The collision's force threw her out of the 1952-model car she was driving and partially underneath the Bart car which had to be lifted to extricate Mrs. Soffin, police said.

Martin suffered broken ribs and bruises. He apparently hit the dashboard of the Soffin car before being thrown across the steering wheel and out onto the pavement, police noted.

Neither Sandra Bart nor her 5 passengers were injured.

Youth Overcome Attacking Blaze

A Lincoln youth was overcome Friday afternoon fighting a fire in the basement of Castle Apartments at 635 So. 11th. Damage was estimated as ranging up to $150.

Asst. Fire Chief Wendell (Bud) Malcolm said the blaze started in a mattress in the boiler room and extended to other overstuffed furniture stored there.

In trying to put out the fire by breaking water pipes in the basement, 19-year-old John Childers of 626 So. 9th was overcome. Firemen gave him oxygen for 10 minutes.

'JFK To Blame For Aid Slash,' Nebraskan Says

Washington (UPI)—President Kennedy has only himself to blame for the humiliating defeat he suffered on his foreign aid bill, Rep. Glenn Cunningham, R-Neb., said Friday.

Cunningham said former Rep. Walter Judd, R-Minn., defeated last year in his bid for re-election, was the most articulate and persuasive spokesman in the House for foreign aid. A former medical missionary, Judd argued so convincingly in favor of the program that many congressmen would withdraw their objections, Cunningham said in an interview.

"Then last year Kennedy went up and purged him," he said.

"On the very day we were debating the foreign aid bill, and Judd was there arguing for it, Kennedy was in his district speaking against him."

"Judd wasn't here Friday, either—that was the nub of Kennedy's defeat."

HERE IN LINCOLN

Bankruptcy Filed—Fred Rutt Jr., truck driver, of 517 So. 8th, filed a bankruptcy petition in U.S. District Court listing $1,276 in liabilities and $500 in exempt assets.

Roper & Sons Mort.—Adv. Dinner Cancelled—The reunion dinner for former Western Electric employees of the Lincoln shop, scheduled for Saturday night, has been postponed until a later date, as yet unannounced.

In the long ago an inquirer asked of Jesus, "Who is my neighbor?" Do you suppose Jesus told him only the people who live next door? Six of the Ten Commandments are concerned with how we treat other people... our neighbors. In the light of the Golden Rule, anyone could be my neighbor. For it reads, "Do unto others," and not just to the people whose lots join mine. Neighborliness is certainly one of the finer virtues, but if we would have good neighbors, we must first perform like one. Here in this Sunday school class men are searching the book of Luke for better ways to become neighborly. Are you a good neighbor?

You In The Church
The Church In You
— form a combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord. Let us support her program of service to humanity, be a faithful worker, a daily bible reader and attend services regularly.

Whosoever Needs Me

"Who is my Neighbor?" How do you answer that one? It's a nagging, persistent question that demands an answer and we don't like the answer! We have grudgingly become aware of the fact that neighborhoods have stretched down across the tracks, into the Colored Section, across the Latin Quarter, seeped into China Town, to the South, the North, East, West, Africa, India... the whole world with all of its people.

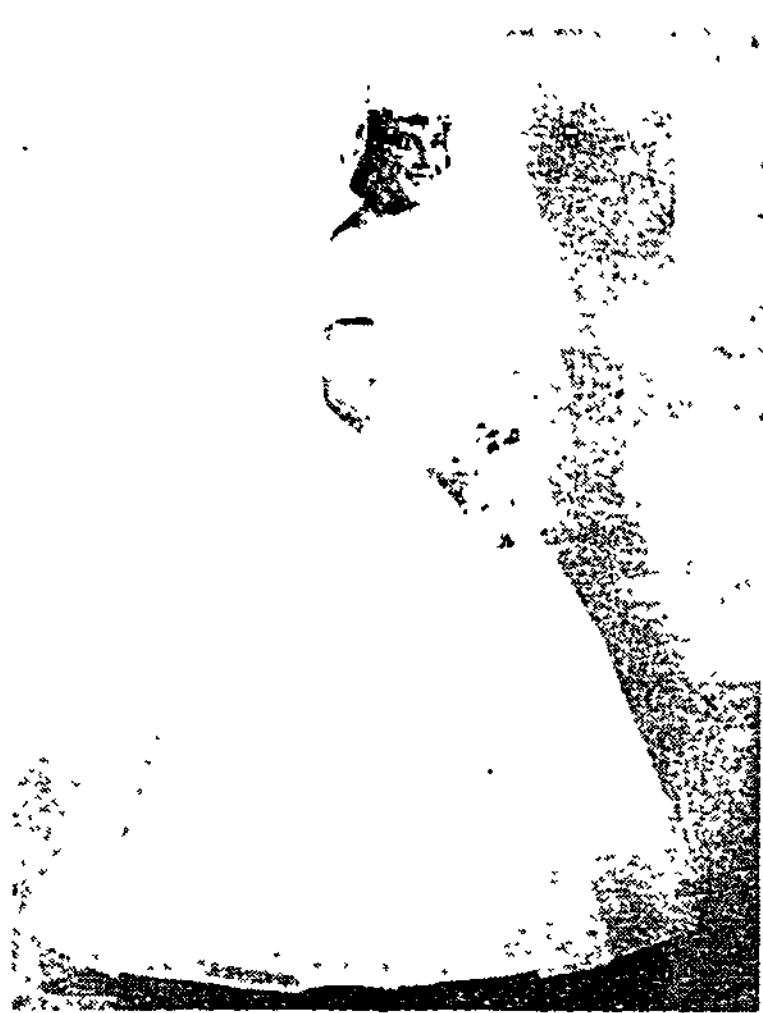

Jesus taught us that neighborliness is not based on proximity but upon need and mercy and love. Thus, our neighbors half way around the world need our understanding and thoughtfulness... they need us as a neighbor.

But, need we go so far away from home to start??? No, we start where we find a neighbor who needs us. As we seek to be a neighbor, color of skin, accent of speech, section of town, economic and social standing fade and blend under the charm and grace of the Master. Then, "Who is my Neighbor?"... men, who in kindness, support a service like this, or visit the sick, or feed the hungry, or clothe the naked. Whosoever needs me is my neighbor. May the Good Lord teach us and lead us to be increasingly good neighbors. Amen.

Married At Friday Ceremonies

The candlelight chancel of the First Presbyterian Church formed the background on Friday evening, Aug. 23, for the wedding of Miss Mary Jo Logan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. E. Logan, and Roger Gayle Patrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Patrick. The service was solemnized at 7:30 o'clock by the Rev. John Waser, and Mrs. Edgar A. Cole, organist, played the wedding music. The vocal soloist was Mrs. Jim Schuldt.

Miss Linda Gilman, as the maid of honor, Miss Mary Ann Turner of Wayne, the bridesmaid, and the junior bridesmaid, Miss Barbara Patrick, wore tunic frocks of mint green brocade, and carried nosegays of white carnations and pink roses.

Serving as best man was Bill Poppert of Stromsburg, and the ushers were Roger Meisenbach of Beatrice, Dennis Lyons and Darrell Buss.

For her wedding, the bride chose a gown of white silk organza over net and tulle. The bodice was designed with a portrait neckline and brief sleeves, touched with appliques of embroidered Alencon lace, and the lace motif was repeated at the slim waist, beneath which the circular skirt was caught into fullness. Tulle petals edged with seed pearls formed the cap which held her illusion veil, and she carried a crescent of pink roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick will reside at 2535 No. 49th. A graduate of the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Zeta Tau Alpha sorority, the bride will teach in the Lincoln Schools. Mr. Patrick, a member of Delta Sigma Phi, is a student at the university.

The wedding of Miss Linda Carol Ham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Ham, and Gordon Taylor March, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie March of Macon, Mo., took place on Friday evening, Aug. 23, at the College View Presbyterian Church. The Rev. L. Dean Hay read the lines of the service at 7:30 o'clock, and the wedding music was played by Mrs. R. G. Hollingsworth, organist. The vocal soloist was Mrs. Glenn Slothower.

The maid of honor and her sister's only attendant was Miss Roma Ham who wore a sheath of pastel aqua tulle with a full overskirt of matching organza. She carried a small fan of blue tulle clustered with carnations.

Serving Mr. March as best man was Thomas Peterson, and seating the guests were Milton Conrad and John Stutzman.

The bride's gown was fashioned of white Chantilly lace and tulle. The bodice was designed with long sleeves and a Sabrina neckline traced with sequins and pearls, and a vertical front panel of the lace emphasized the width of the tulle skirt. Her bouffant veil of illusion was held by a crown of jeweled lace, and she carried a fan of white Chantilly lace ornamented with feathered carnations.

Upon their return from a wedding trip to Minnesota, Mr. and Mrs. March will make their home at 5035 Pioneers. The bridegroom is a graduate of Union College.

Miss Janed Belle Shepherd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil W. Shepherd, became the bride of Gary R. Egger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Egger, at an evening ceremony solemnized Friday, Aug. 23, at the Church of the Brethren. The lines of the service were read by the Rev. C. N. Van Dyke of Eldon, Mo., uncle of the bride, assisted by the Rev. Meredith V. Rogers, and Mrs. Sarah Orr, organist, played the wedding music. Mrs. Orr also accompanied Mrs. John E. Cullen, the vocal soloist.

Froked in pink organza and carrying old-fashioned nosegays of pink carnations and roses frilled with lace and tulle were Miss Colleen Preston, as the maid of honor; Miss Norma Van Dyke, Omaha, the bridesmaid; and the bridesmatron, Mrs. Duane Grant.

Robert Egger served his brother as best man, and the corps of ushers included Ronald Egger, Denton; Richard Huncker, Goodland, Kan.; Gerry Cullen and Jay Dirksen.

The bride appeared in a gown of white, handclipped Chantilly lace and organza. The long-sleeved bodice of lace was fashioned with a Sabrina neckline, dotted with pearls and sequins, and the bouffant skirt of organza was trimmed with tiny organza bows and appliques of the lace, and completed by dust ruffle of lace touching the floor at the back. A crown of jeweled organza petals held her veil of silk illusion, and she carried a bouquet of pink sweetheart roses.

Following a Colorado wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Egger will reside at 3320 A. The bridegroom is attending the University of Nebraska, where the bride is a former student.

of Fremont, who is Mrs. Brown's niece.

Tina departed the Brown household last weekend when her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moller, arrived in Lincoln to accompany her home.

SKYLINE TERRACE

A new resident in Skyline Terrace this week, and, we might add, a very new resident is Debra Lee Fujan, who is the daughter, and first child, of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fujan, Jr.

Debra Lee made her debut August 19 at St. Elizabeth Hospital. Her paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fujan, of Posen, and her maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. George Kasper of Malmö.

There was also a birthday in the neighborhood this week—that of Jamie Holloway, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Holloway. Jamie celebrated his fourth anniversary on Thursday afternoon with several neighborhood playmates and his little brother Mark.

Michael returned home recently with Mr. and Mrs. Ed Eschler, his uncle Joe, and his great-grandmother, Mrs. Anna Eschler, all of whom were visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Ed Eschler Jr.

A small out-of-town visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Brown and their sons, John and Joe, last week was Miss Tina Moller

The News Around Town

The town is busy—as usual. There are guests, travelers—and new residents, to mention this morning, and we'll begin with the guests—

Mr. and Mrs. Cullen Serr (Mary Lou Calhoun) are leaving this morning to return to Philadelphia after a visit with Mrs. Serr's mother, Mrs. O. V. Calhoun, and her brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. Walt Weaver.

Mr. and Mrs. Serr spent several days at Mrs. Calhoun's summer cottage at Pelican Lake, where they were joined by Mrs. Calhoun, and arrived in Lincoln on Wednesday.

Sunday arrivals in town will be Mr. and Mrs. Robert Messmer (Sally Warren—Pi Beta Phi at Nebraska) of Palm Desert, Calif., who will be the house guests of Mrs. Messmer's parents, Dr. and Mrs. G. T. Warren.

On Wednesday Mr. and Mrs. Messmer will fly to Chicago to join other Nebraska alumni for the University of Nebraska tour of Europe.

Before coming to Lincoln Mr. and Mrs. Messmer will be Friday-to-Sunday guests of Mr. Messmer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Messmer, in Omaha.

Off to Hinsdale, Ill., earlier this week went Miss Jean Morrison, daughter of Gov. and Mrs. Frank Morrison, who is to be a speech therapist in the Hinsdale public schools. Miss Morrison and Miss Sally Copple of Grand Island, who also is to work with speech therapy in the Hinsdale schools, have taken an apartment in La Grange, Ill.—a stone's throw from Hinsdale.

Both Miss Morrison and Miss Copple were graduated in June from the University of Nebraska where Miss Morrison is a member of Delta Gamma sorority, and Miss Copple of Gamma Phi Beta.

Our new residents mentioned back in the beginning, are Dr. and Mrs. Roy G. Holly and their children, Philip, Carol and Hugh. Dr. and Mrs. Holly and their family are arriving home from Hawaii just in time to pack up bag and baggage for the move to Lincoln. Their address will be 2330 Woods-dale, the house recently occupied by Maj. and Mrs. William Callaway. Many longtime residents of Lincoln will remember the address of the former home of Mrs. Harry Meginnis, and the late Mr. Meginnis.

Dr. Holly, as you doubtless know, is dean of the graduate school at the University of Nebraska, and the University's research administrator. Until his appointment several months ago, Dr. Holly was chairman of the OB department at the University of Nebraska College of Medicine in Omaha.

Someone told us that Mr. and Mrs. George G. Swingle left this morning for Lakeside—a n d Alliance—where they will spend the weekend. We have no knowledge of Mr. Swingle's plans, but we can tell you that Mrs. Swingle is attending a luncheon and the Bullock's "Wiltshire fashion show, both to be held at the ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Black. Both the luncheon, and the fashion show were arranged as a benefit for the Alliance Woman's Club.

Fun Things Planned For AEJ Women & Children

The national convention of AEJ opens in Lincoln on Sunday with all sessions held at the Nebraska Center.

It is more than likely that outside of the AEJ membership the letters AEJ aren't too well known. They stand for Association for Education in Journalism. We have learned that many of the members who are attending the Lincoln meeting will be accompanied by their families, which, of course makes our particular interest the woman and children—and the program of entertainment that has been arranged for them.

Tomorrow evening seems to be an exceedingly busy one—a family picnic at Pioneer park—a social hour later at Holiday Inn where an AEJ swimming party also is planned for late evening.

Monday, another picnic for the children at Pioneer Park, with the remainder of the afternoon devoted to a tour of the Emergency Operation Center and the Lincoln Air Force base. For the wives there will be tours of the Sheldon Art Museum, or the Nebraska State Historical Society. There will be a Columbia University alumni luncheon at 12 o'clock at the University Club, and a University of Missouri alumni party at 5 o'clock at Holiday Inn.

On Wednesday mothers and daughters will attend a luncheon and style show in the Columbus Room, Nebraska Center. Following the style show there will be a tour of Morrill Hall, and a Planetarium show. At 5 o'clock there will be a State University of Iowa party at Holiday Inn.

On Wednesday morning the wives and the children will be coffee guests at the Governor's Mansion.

An early supper at the Center for the children on Wednesday evening, and afterward they will have a special free showing of PT 109 at the Varsity theater.

Among the many nice things about going away to school are the goodbye parties as Sharon Hall, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William E. Hall could tell you. The young Miss Hall leaves early in September for Northfield School, Northfield, Mass., and yesterday she was honored at a luncheon for which Mrs. Neal Copple was hostess at her home.

FUN NEWS IN SUBURBIA

MEADOW LANE

With moving vans coming and going in the neighborhood and between the Suburban residents who are leaving on vacation and the many others who are returning, we're just not exactly sure who's who or who's where.

This state of confusion will be only temporary however. This morning we have news of new residents in the Meadow Lane area and also of vacationers who have returned home.

Our new residents in Meadow Lane, as of last Wednesday, are Sgt. and Mrs. La Vern Weber who now are residing at 1440 No. 70th St.

Sgt. and Mrs. Weber and their three children, Mike, Shirley and Tootie aren't brand new newcomers to the city. They have resided in Lincoln since their return from Japan a little more than a year ago.

The Berry Thompson home is a very busy one this week as they have just returned home from a trip to the Detroit Lakes in Minn., where Mr. Thompson played in the Pine to Palm golf tournament.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson were joined in Detroit Lakes by former Lincoln residents, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Sidley who now reside in Brookfield, Wis.

This, however, is not all the activity at the Thompson home for visiting this week is their son and daughter-in-law, Lt. and Mrs. J. R. Thompson and their son, Chris.

Lt. Thompson and his family reside at Goldsboro, N.C., and Lt. Thompson will be leaving his family within the next few days to return to base. Mrs. Thompson and Chris will be visiting with Mrs. Thompson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hubka until the first of October when she will join her husband.

Guests who will be arriving this Sunday at the Thompson home are Mr. Thompson's nephew and his wife Mr. and Mrs. Hobart Hoagland and their family of Rapelje, Mont.

The Hoagland family will be visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Thompson for several days before returning to their home.

Houseguests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Smith this week have been former Lincoln residents, Mrs. Robert Allan and her son and daughter, David and Denise of Kansas City, Mo.

Mrs. Allan and the children arrived last Wednesday and departed on Friday when Mr. Allan joined the family and they continued their trip to Colorado.

There will be more guests in the Meadow Lane area and at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Scheetz and their children, Debbie, Peggie and Mark.

The visitors, who will arrive on Sunday, are Mrs. Scheetz' brother-in-law and sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Soder, and their children Steve, Larry and Jeff from Denver, Colo.

The Soder family will be in the Lincoln area until Tuesday when they will depart for Faubury and a visit with Mrs. Soder's parents, Mr and Mrs. Glenn Clark.

A member of Meadow Lane's younger generation who has returned home after a four-week vacation with his grandparents is Michael Eschler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Eschler.

Michael spent two of his four weeks with his paternal grandparents and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Eschler and their son Joe of Walters, Okla., and the rest of his vacation with his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Claud Hennessee of Lawton, Okla.

Michael returned home recently with Mr. and Mrs. Ed Eschler, his uncle Joe, and his great-grandmother, Mrs. Anna Eschler, all of whom were visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Ed Eschler Jr.

SHIBUI IS A MULTICOLOR CONTINUOUS FILAMENT NYLON CARPET

Here is not just another tweed type pattern with a black and white type of contrast! The colorations of SHIBUI are subtle interblendings of compatible colors. Colors carefully chosen so when they come together in the construction of the rug, they enhance each other rather than detract from each other. Colors which contribute to each other so that the effect in a room is subtle—over-all hue rather than two contrasts fighting each other for dominance. SHIBUI has two shades of one color that moves and changes with the reflecting light, thus giving depth and richness to the carpet. The subtle two-color tones also increases the carpet's ability to disguise soil. Actual "aile tests" indicate that several colors will be ideal for contract use in public interiors such as Hotels, Churches-Offices, etc., because of its ability to reduce appearance of soiling and its undisputed ability to take heavy traffic and give long wear. Dear Abby

The Family Should Be Told

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I know a practical nurse who is a disgrace to the profession. She was hired to care for an elderly lady who is almost helpless. After the P.N. puts this elderly lady to bed she goes out the back door and across the street to spend the night with a widower who lives alone. She is supposed to be sleeping in the bedroom next to the patient in case she is needed during the night. I am not the kind of person who makes trouble, but I think somebody ought to tell the family of this poor old helpless woman, and I don't know them well enough.

SEEING IS BELIEVING
DEAR SEEING: To be aware of this situation and withhold it from the family is, in my opinion, morally wrong. Since you don't know the family well enough to tell them, find someone who does. But see to it that the family learns the truth immediately.

DEAR ABBY: I am married, but for reasons I cannot put in a letter I am unable to keep my baby. Will a home for unwed mothers take me?

NIGHTMARE
DEAR NIGHTMARE: Yes, there are SOME homes that will take married girls. Send me your name and address.

DEAR ABBY: About six years ago a nice young couple moved into our neighborhood. I'll call them Mabel and Pete, which are not their real names. My husband and I became very friendly with them. They had two children and so did we. Two years ago, for no reason at all, Pete walked off and left Mabel. She was five months pregnant at the time. We never saw Pete again, but Mabel said they were divorced and she gets alimony and support money regularly. We have been like a family to Mabel. Out of the blue my husband told me he wanted to ADOPT Mabel's youngest child, a sweet boy. I knew my husband was fond of this child, but I can't see why he would want to ADOPT him. He said Mabel would continue to raise him but the boy would be legally his "son". Isn't this rather unusual? What would you do, Abby?

INA DAZE

DEAR INA: I'd tell my husband to forget it. And if you are like a "family" to Mabel, do her a favor and help her find a nice man to complete her own family.

DEAR ABBY: Last night I took a baby-sitting job in the neighborhood. I had just started to sit for money and it was my first time with these people. I am 14 and my mother won't let me sit anywhere later than midnight. It was agreed with these people that I'd sit from seven until midnight for 50c an hour. The children were perfect and gave me no trouble. It got to be 12:30 and the parents were not home yet. My mother called twice and I had to tell her I couldn't leave because the parents were still out. Finally, at 1 A.M., I telephoned the parents (they were at a relatives home) and asked them please to come home. They came right away and apologized for forgetting the time. They tipped me a dollar, too. Now my mother won't let me sit for them any more. It only happened once. Do you think my mother is being fair?

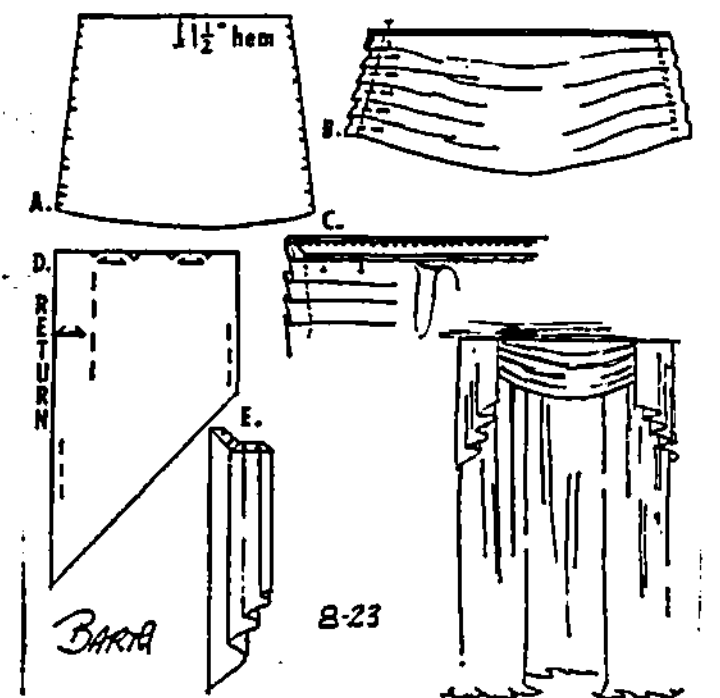

SITTER
DEAR SITTER: I would say, give the night owls one more chance.

Tell your troubles to Abby. For a personal unpublished reply, please send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Window Elegance

Patricia Scott

The swag and cascade valance is an elegant way to decorate your window. However, since it tends to lower the ceiling it is not good in a small room.

For this valance, you'll need a shelf-type board on which to mount the valance. It is advisable to make a muslin pattern of both swag and cascade before cutting drapery fabric to be sure of depth, fullness, etc.

The depth you make the swag depends on the height of the window. For an average window, the swag should be about 14 inches deep at center. When you start to cut your swag, notice that it is cut on the straight crosswise grain at the top and the length of your valance board. The bottom is slightly wider and rounded.

To make swag pattern, cut a piece of muslin 36 inches long and 3 inches wider than the board. Pin muslin to board across top. Be sure muslin extends the same amount at both sides. To form pleats start at top. Each pleat is 2 inches deep. The second pleat overlaps the first pleat 1/4 inch. Continue pleating in this way until the entire piece is pleated or until swag is the desired depth at center. Trim sides even with end of board and make notches at fold and turn of each pleat. Remove pins from pleats and cut drapery fabric. As in figure A allow for a 1-1/2 inch top hem. Also allow 1/2 inch seam allowance at bottom curved edge. Cut lining from same pattern but eliminate top hem. Stitch lining to fabric at bottom edge, right sides together. Trim seams to 1/4 inch, turn and press. Turn top of swag under 1/4 inch, then again one-inch and press.

Following notches, pin

The expert does not have X-ray spectacles, contrary to some opinions, but he does have a good sense of what's going on at the table and who has what.

This deal was played in a match between Great Britain and Egypt. When the British held the North-South cards, the bidding went as shown. West led the jack of diamonds, taken by the ace.

Declarer played a low heart to the king. East returned a trump, the queen losing to the singleton king (and proving that South was not blessed with X-ray eyes). West then played a low heart, the jack forcing the ace.

The British South now drew a round of trumps and ruffed a heart in dummy, which East overruffed. East returned a trump and declarer won and played a club to the jack, the finesse succeeding. The position, declarer having lost three tricks, now was:

Declarer played the queen of diamonds, forcing East to cover with the king and thus transferring the burden of guarding diamonds upon West. After ruffing the diamond, South cashed his hearts, forcing West to choose between discarding the ten of diamonds or ten of clubs. West could not discard successfully, and the outcome was that South made four spades as a result of the transfer squeeze. Without the queen of diamonds lead the squeeze would not have worked.

The same contract was reached at the other table, where an Egyptian pair were North-South. At this table also, the opening lead was the jack of diamonds, and, not to be outdone by his counterpart, the Egyptian declarer likewise made four spades on the transfer squeeze.

John Glenn Fails To Get Promotion

Washington (UPI) — Astronaut John H. Glenn failed Friday to get the rank of full colonel to which he theoretically could have been promoted by the Marine Corps.

Glenn, first American to orbit the earth, is now a lieutenant colonel. The promotion would have advanced his military pay from $11,404 to $12,935, not counting proposed increases being considered by Congress.

The astronaut, who was 42 years old July 22, was not

'Lady In Black' At Valentino's Grave For Rites

Hollywood (UPI) — About 75 persons gathered Friday at the crypt of Rudolph Valentino in Hollywood Memorial Park to observe the 37th anniversary of the silent screen lover's death.

As usual there was a mysterious "lady in black" who declined to identify herself.

She was on crutches, wore a veil and placed a wreath at the crypt.

Other floral offerings arrived from Valentino fan clubs throughout the world.

Gil Lamb, stage and screen actor who began his career in the Valentino era, delivered a eulogy on behalf of the Masquers Club.

A prayer was offered by June Wood, chaplain of the Troupers' Club.

Valentino, a native of Italy who rose to stardom with such pictures as "The Sheik" and "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," died in 1926 at the age of 31.

A "lady in black" has appeared most years at memorial services. The idea of such a mourner originated as a movie publicity stunt, but appears to have been taken up by one or more sincere fans.

Exception Clause

An exception clause was in the promotion law which raised the possibility that he might be promoted. The clause provides that selection boards may go below the zone to pick not more than 5% of the officers named for promotion.

Glenn was eligible as an exception, because he has now had 5 years of service in his present rank, and a total of 20 years of military service.

The board, however, did not go below the zone for any of the selections announced Friday.

Observers explained that the exception clause is used to promote men when it is desired to place them in a position where their normal rank would be inappropriate. Glenn and the other astronauts are assigned to the Federal Space Agency, where no special rank is required.

Possible Result

Had the Marines decided to set a precedent, it might have resulted in earlier promotions for Lt. Cmdr. Scott Carpenter, Cmdr. Alan B. Shepard, and Cmdr. Walter Schirra and other astronauts. Shepard and Schirra will become eligible for promotion to captain from below the zone in 1965 and 1967 respectively.

Carpenter would be eligible for such an exceptional promotion to a full commander beginning next month.

Without setting the precedent, they probably will have to wait one or two years longer for advancement. Glenn conceivably could be in the promotion zone next year, if there were a number of resignations, but probably won't reach that status until 1965.

VETS HOSPITAL PATIENTS ENTERTAINED

Lincoln entertainers staged a show Friday night for patients at Veterans Hospital. Seen here going through their paces are LaVone Winders and Mary Ann Marshall.

Friday nights are lonely nights in the wards because most patients have passes to go home for a visit. Also in the show were Ev Stewart and Shirley Parent. (Star Photo)

Aeschbacher Appointed To Library Post

Washington (AP) — William D. Aeschbacher, director of the Nebraska State Historical Society since 1956, was appointed Friday to be director of the Dwight D. Eisenhower Library at Abilene, Kan.

Bernard L. Boutin, General Services Administrator, said that Aeschbacher will assume his new duties Sept. 1. He will succeed Robert R. Bolton, acting director since Jan. 1961, who will become associate director of the library.

The new director will be paid $14,565 a year.

A native of Kansas, Aeschbacher was graduated from the University of Nebraska in 1940. He received his doctorate in history from Nebraska in 1948 following 4 years of military service. He then was professor of history at Murray State College in Kentucky for 8 years.

Vehicle Bumped, Man, 67, Injured

As he was turning into his driveway at 733 So. 10th Friday, Walter Burt's car was struck from behind by one driven by Lowell Eppens, 28, of 812 H, police said.

Burt, 67, was slightly injured but received no medical attention. Police reported that Eppens' car slid on wet pavement. The accident happened shortly after noon. It was raining at the time in Lincoln.

Over 400 To Attend '63 Youth Conference

The youths will study Nebraska problems in the areas of education, recreation and economic opportunities.
